From the Editor's Desk . .

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following editorial was written by Randolph McDonough, Alumni Executive Secretary at the University of Denver, and appeared in "The Pioneer," a bulletin of his Association. Because your own secretary has had experiences similar to the one related by the Colorado man, the editor of "The Alumnus" has decided to present Mr. McDonough as a "guest columnist" in this issue. Our professional colleague was for a number of years a member of the Board of Directors of the American Alumni Council, and is a past president of District VII of that organization.)

THE OTHER DAY I got a severe shock. It happened when I met a classmate of mine in a downtown restaurant. I hadn't seen her for years and she hadn't heard from the Alumni Office for the reason that we did not have her address. When I greeted her (warmly, I hope) and asked if we might have her address so that we could send her the Pioneer and notice of alumni meetings, she replied, "No. Frankly, Mac, I am not interested in living in the past."

That simple statement set me to wondering whether our whole alumni program affects other alumni the same way or whether that point of view is as rare as I hope it is. She was implying, of course, that it's all bunk to think about old relationships. What is past is past—we paid our tuition, had our training, and the deal is closed. Why bother about attempting to keep up these relationships between each other and between us and the University?

Now, if she is right, all alumni work is a waste of time. Of course I know she isn't right. Here's the situation as I see it:

Our days in college were not only times when we made lasting friendships which most of us don't want to drop, but we became related in a peculiar way with an institution which existed before we came on the scene and which will exist long after our days of active interest are over.

We didn't think much about it when we were students but most of us have come to be interested in the continuance and growth of our Alma Mater not for personal benefit entirely but because of what the University is doing and can do for present and coming generations of young people.

I, for one, am deeply grateful for what the University did for me and for what certain professors meant to me in days gone by. My present interest, however, is to see to it, as far as I can, that the University continues to mean as much to present and future students as it meant to me. It never occurs to me that our emphasis on alumni relationships even suggests that we are living in the past and that we are concerned only with reminiscing about the good old days, as fine as they were.

There's a lot to be done to help our University. My feeling is that ninety-nine per cent of our alumni family want to have a share in making our University reach its largest possibilities of service.

GREETINGS to the members of the June graduating class. With the number of G.I. students tapering off slightly it is possible that enrollments in the colleges have reached their postwar peaks, which in most cases are all-time highs. Only another federally-subsidized program is likely to bring students to the campus in such large numbers again. The Class of 1948 could well go down in history as Ohio University's largest. May time prove it to be one of the best, if not the largest.

Governor and Prexies On The Air

On June 11, over a hook-up of 45 Ohio radio stations, Governor Thomas J. Herbert discussed the work being done at the state's six tax-supported universities. Participating with him in the radio program were the presidents of the state universities or their representatives.

ing Dr. Charles H. Wesley, president of State College at Wilberforce; Dr. John C. Baker, president of Ohio University; Dr. F. J. Prout, president of Bowling Green State University; Dr. Howard L. Bevis, president of Ohio State University; Dr. C. W. Kreger, assistant to Dr. Ernest H. Hahne, president of Miami University; and Dr. George A. Bowman, president of Kent State University. Governor Herbert is seated at his desk.

The following excerpts from the program include the statement made by President Baker and some of the remarks of Governor Herbert.

(Announcer) From the Governor's office in Ohio's historic state house at Columbus we bring you the seventeenth in a series of transcribed monthly broadcasts featuring a report by Governor Thomas J. Herbert on the progress of our state government. Today, the Governor has invited the Presidents of the six state-supported universities to report to him and directly to you on their accomplishments this year. And now, ladies and gentlemen, here is Governor Herbert.

(Governor) June marks the end of another college year. It is particularly appropriate, then, that we spend a few moments today bringing you a brief word picture of the work being done by those six universities supported by the taxpayers of Ohio.

But, first, let me remind you that in Ohio there are more colleges and universities than in the entire British Empire. Ohio ranks second among all the states in number of colleges and universities. In fact, since statehood, Ohio has been college conscious and our people are proud—and should be—of the opportunities they have offered their youth in the field of higher education.

The first college in the Northwest Territory was established at Athens and today is known as Ohio University. Last October I had the pleasure of participating in the rededication of Cutler Hall, named in honor of the founder of that great university.

Gavernor Herbert (seated) and Representatives of Universities

President John C. Baker is with us today. Mr. Baker, what will you tell us about Ohio University?

(Baker) Governor Herbert, last week we graduated 507 students and Mr. Roy Larsen, President of Time-Life and Fortune Magazines, was our Commencement speaker. Our present enrollment, including 1,000 students in our three branches, is 6,700. At war's end we had only 1,275. We have nearly doubled the enrollment we had before the war. On the campus 55 per cent of our students are war veterans and at our Zanesville, Chillicothe, and Portsmouth branches 45 per cent are former G.I.'s.

The State Legislature appropriated $5,000,000 to operate the university during 1947 and 1948. We were given $2,500,000 for permanent improvements and with this we are constructing a University Health Center, Engineering and Science Center, Fine Arts Building, and we remodeled Cutler Hall.

We have been placing special emphasis on a progressive modern academic program and our building plans have been designed to meet these needs. In addition we are delighted to have a long-needed student health building.

(Governor) Ladies and gentlemen, I desire publicly to express my appreciation to the presidents of these six state-supported universities for joining me in bringing this report of their activities directly to you.

Their participation in this program today is one more demonstration of their capacity and willingness to work together harmoniously to achieve a common end. These gentlemen constitute the Inter-University Council. through which our six state - supported universities are working together in solution of common problems without surrendering individual identity and autonomy. Before this Council was formed these state - supported universities were competing against each other for students and funds.

My last meeting with the presidents of these six universities, as a body, was in December, 1946, one month before I was inaugurated Governor of Ohio. At that time they presented, and we discussed, their budgetary requirements for 1947-1948.

They advanced the facts, which you have heard today, that their combined enrollment has grown from 14,628 at the end of the war to 45,386 today. One half of these are veterans of World War II. It was apparent that the state must meet its responsibilities to its young men and women.

I recommended and the Legislature increased the appropriations for these universities $16,000,000 for operating expenses during 1947-1948. In addition they have received $23,000,000 for permanent construction. By this means, today, we have brought to you a report indicating what the universities are doing with the additional appropriations received by them during this biennium.

The June Commencement.

June commencement activities, restricted at the request of the graduating class to a week end, opened with the Reunion Luncheons of the 50-year, 35-year, and 25-year classes at the Athens Country Club, Saturday noon, June 5, and closed with the formal granting of degrees in Alumni Memorial Auditorium the following afternoon, Sunday,

The in-between events were the Commencement Supper "under the Elms" and an out-of-doors concert by the University Chorus, both Saturday evening, and the Baccalaureate Service in the Auditorium Sunday morning.

Because of a lack of housing and other facilities only the Classes of 1898, 1913, and 1923 were encouraged to hold formal reunions this year.

Five of the nine living members of the Golden Anniversary class, with several guests, relived experiences of half a century ago following an excellent luncheonof dinner proportions-at the country club, beautifully located in the rolling hills near Athens. When memories failed a bit, pictures of classmates and of campus scenes were brought out as aids to the reminiscing.

Members of the Class of 1898 who attended the luncheon were: Mrs. Ada Wickham O'Bleness, Mrs. Florence Craig Wilson, Dr. Don D. Tullis, Charles G. O'Bleness, all of Athens, and Dr. J. T. Ullom, Philadelphia, Pa. A last-minute interruption of plans prevented the attendance of Prof. F. J. Batterson, Bluffton.

Besides wives and husbands, the "old-timers included Judge George W. Reed, '88, Uhrichsville, among their guests.

Four members of this luncheon group have held the office of president of the Ohio University Alumni Association: Dr. Tullis, 1947-48; Dr. Ullom, 1931-32; Dr. Hiram Roy Wilson, '96, a guest of Mrs. Wilson, 1927-29; and Judge Reed, 1925-26.

Members of the Class of 1913 present for the reunion were: John M Henry, Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Robert G. Webber, Mt. Sterling; John G. Case, Columbus; John King, Newark; Mrs. Jane Dowd Dailey, Albany; and Robert L. Morton and Roger J. Iones, Athens.

The nineteen members of the Class of 1923, together with wives, hushands, and several sons and daughters, made up the largest of the three reunion groups. Prof. C. N. Mackinnon, class professor, was a special guest.

The 1925'ers present were: Dr.

Marvin L. Fair, New Orleans, La.; Dr. W. Amos Kincaid, Hempstead, N.Y.; Rhodapearl Bayha, Cincinnati; Ferry A. Cady, Crooksville; H. A. Matheny, St. Marys, W. Va.; Dr. C. J. Mardis, Dayton.

Byron E. Whipple, Altadena, Calif.: Dr. Walter L. Cruise, Zanes-ville; Mrs. Margaret Ferrell Phipps, Payne; Mrs. Mabel Wagner Jones and Mrs. Emma Veley Bland, Fostoria; Asa A. Hoskins, Pomeroy.

Dr. K. O. English, Edison Park, Ill.; Mrs. Gyneth Bryan Roberts, Akron; Mrs. Clara Blume Martin, Logan; Mrs. Martha Welsh Stuart, Albany; and from Athens, Irene L. Devlin, Mrs. Grace Shafer Sands, and Prof. Ralph F. Beckert.

The commencement supper, propared under the supervision of Mrs. Margaret Keehne Davis, '32, A.M. '38, director of university dining halls, and served buffet style from three long tables, was enjoyed by approximately 700 persons, some of whom appear in the picture on the next page. The group included a great many seniors and their guests, members of the faculty, and alumni.

Immediately following the supper the University Chorus, under the direction of Prof. C. C. Robinson, presented a concert from a stand erected in front of the west portico of the Auditorium.

The program included numbers by Beethoven, Brahms, and Mendelssohn, as well as the works of more recent composers. Soloists appearing on the program were: Arlene Bibbee, soprano, Estelle Krupnick, violinist; and Joy Patterson and Joyce Bryant, flautists. Accompanists were Dorothy Savely, Jean Hales, and Charles Lanning.

The speaker at the Sunday morning baccalaureate service was Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, South Yarmouth, Mass., dean emeritus of the University of Chicago Chapel and former pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist Church in Chicago, Miss Arlene Bibbee, a senior, was the soloist.

Using a unique subject, "How Long Do Cut Flowers Last?" Dr. Gilkey told the graduates that "unless these diplomas stand for something more than so many examinations passed and so many requirements fulfilled, the intellectual attainments on which we congratulate you today will prove only cut flowers."

Dr. Gilkey pointed out that commencement festivities or any public or private celebrations in American life owe much of their color and picturesqueness to the flowers which adorn the setting or the principals.

"But not many of us stop to think what happens to these adornments once the party is over-most of them are cut flowers-and they soon find their way, faded and odorous, to the ash heap.

"Unless these graduates carry away from this campus, deep under the surface of their lives but alive and growing, habits of solid reading and creative thinking that will be roots and seeds in their offices and their homes their intellectual attainments are bound for the mental ash-heap," he declared.

"We Americans need this reminder the more because we are so susceptible to quick success—and so skillful at celebrating it. What happens afterward either to the cut flowers at the party or to the success itself, we are often too busy with the next party to remember," he stated.

The afternoon exercises were preceded by the traditional Commencement Procession participated in by the seniors and faculty in academic costume.

Not soon to be forgotten, probably, was an experience shared by the marchers when they were caught and thoroughly drenched by a sudden downpour of rain midway in "the long walk" from Ewing Hall to the Auditorium. Breaking ranks precipitately, seniors, officers of instruction, and visiting dignitaries, alike, scurried for the nearest shelter.

In the Auditorium, composures having been quickly regained, President John C. Baker conferred degrees upon the largest June class in the history of the university. The class numbered 491, nineteen of whom received masters' degrees.

In addition to the degrees, four commissions as second lieutenants in the Army Officers' Reserve Corps and one in the U. S. Air Force Reserve were presented to graduates of advanced R.O.T.C. courses.

pianist. Prof. Allen R. Kresge was the organist for both of the Sunday programs.

The commencement speaker was Roy E. Larsen, New York City, president of Time, Inc. Creator of the March of Time radio program and of March of Time on the screen, he has been associated in the publishing of all of his company's magazines—Time, Life, and Fortune.

A Harvard graduate and an overseer of Harvard University from 1940 to 1946, Mr. Larsen has taken an active interest in the affairs of his university and in higher education generally.

"You are living in an expanding universe of opportunity. This nation's future is an eminently sound proposition, and so is your future," Mr. Larsen told the seniors in the capacity audience.

"Given your excellent American education and given a genuine concentration on the work that seems most purposeful to you without regard for your beginning money rewards; and finally, given a lively application of your American energies, it is harder to fail than you think."

In reminding the seniors that they were being graduated at exactly the same distance from World War II as he was from World War I, Mr. Larsen said "this coincidence gives me a special interest in your class. But I do not intend to use this interesting coincidence to draw neat parallels between the early 1920's and 1948, between the prospects of the graduate in my day and your prospects in 1948. I agree with the saying that comparisons are odious. I am more inclined, in fact, to make a contrast. I believe your future is a more perplexing future than I faced. But at the same time, I believe your opportunities are greater, too.

"... This nation today is the richest and mightiest on earth. America's might is the greatest single political fact in the world today. And it is the greatest single fact to your life and future career."

In concluding his address, Mr. Larsen said, "It is a remarkable fact that we in this country are apt to appear more undecided and most uncertain at the very historical moment when our country is about to enter upon a new period of greatness. I believe, with my whole being, that this nation now is entering upon its greatest period. This the historical moment when we are turning from uncertainty to confidence. Our tensions and fears are beginning to fall away. Our problems, whatever their size and number, will grow more manageable.

FOURTEEN BOXES of clothing weighing from 50 to 70 pounds each, are on their way to Nuremberg, Germany, as gifts from Ohio University students. The contents of the boxes include 80 pairs of shoes, 48 pairs of trousers, 4 complete suits, 54 dresses, 31 skirts, 38 blouses, 49 sweaters and 30 coats. The clothing was collected by the five sociology classes taught by Dr. Pauline Schwickert with the cooperation of university housing units, churches, and townspeople. Of all the articles collected, the students believe that shoes and winter clothing will be the most important as these items cannot be purchased in Germany at the present time. Another collection campaign is contemplated this fall. Dr. Schwickert, acting assistant professor of sociology, is to be seen (second from the right) listing the contents of boxes as they are packed by students and others associated in the enterprise. Dr. E.

A. Taylor, professor of sociology, is the man at the extreme right.

NUMBER OF PRIZES and Awards have been established at Ohio University by alumni in the names of others or endowed by alumni in their own names. Among these is the John Bayard Thomas Prize in Biology, established by Dr. J. T. Ullom, '98, Philadelphia, Pa., as a memorial to his nephew. The prize was won this year by Patrick J. Creedon, Wellston . . . Another memorial is the Dick De La Haye Hughes Band Awards established by Milton D. Hughes, '12, Athens, following the death of a son. The 1948 recipients of the Hughes awards were Ross Davis, Athens, and Ray Sturm, Shinnston, W. Va. . . The A. A. Atkinson Awards in Electrical Engineering and Physics were endowed by the late Dean Emeritus Albert A. Atkinson, '91, M.S., '94, of the College of Applied Science. This spring's first and second prize winners, in electrical engineering, were James Provence, Akron, and Paul Dobbins, Martins Ferry; in physics, Howard Bletz, Lexington, and John Miller, Canton . . . The undergraduate chapter of Delta Tau Delta fraternity has established a prize in the name of its longtime faculty adviser, Frank B. Gullum, '07, associate professor of chemistry. It is known as the Frank B. Gullum Award for Scholastic Achievement and went this year to Edward Grehm, Horn, '01, 2-yr., and augmented by gifts from his widow, Mrs. Sarah Murphy Horn, '00, 2-yr., and his son, Robert H. Horn, '25, both of Manhasset, N. Y. The prize was awarded this year to Maurice Steiner, Middleport Marian Malham, Warren, and Ross Evans, Cleveland, were the Honors Day recipients of the Evans Latin Prizes, established by friends and former students of the late Dafydd J. Evans, '71, A.M. '74, professor of classical languages at Ohio University for almost half a century.

QUOTAS OF students in Army, Air Force, and Navy Reserve Officer's Training Corps at colleges and universities to be selected by each service during the fiscal year ending next June for deferment from induction under the Selective Service Act of 1948, have been announced by Secretary of Defense James Forrestal and received by the Ohio University Military Department. Allocations within these limits to the individual colleges will be made by the military departments, it was pointed out, with notices of the allocations and instructions for selection to be sent out later. Students deferred in officer training courses are not exempt from registration under the Selective Service Act. However, each will sign an agreement to accept a commission, if tendered at the completion or termination of his course, and thereafter to serve not less than two years on active duty. The signed agreement will authorize deferment so long as he continues satisfactory participation in his training course. Deferment provisions apply to ROTC students who were freshmen or sophomores when it became effective and to incoming freshmen. ROTC students who were juniors when the Selective Service Act became effective and continued their courses as seniors are deferred under other provisions.

A FTER AN ILLNESS of six and one-half years, during which he was on leave of absence from his position as professor of education, Dr. Edward C. Class died, June 30, at his home in Athens. He joined the Ohio University faculty in 1932 and was an active member of the group until forced to give up his duties ten years later. Before coming to the Ohio University campus he had taught in the public schools of Denver, Colo., and at state teachers colleges in Flagstaff, Ariz., and Clarion, Pa.

APPROXIMATELY 300 persons registered for the Conference on Conservation, Nutrition and Human Health held at Ohio University June 26 and 27 and sponsored by Friends of the Land, an organization of nation-wide scope. Louis Bromfield, noted author and farmer, is a vice president of Friends of the Land. Among the speakers at the conference were: Dr. Frank Boudreau, director of the Millbank Foundation, New York City, and a member of the United Nations advisory committee on nutrition, food, and agriculture; Dr. Milton H. Fohrman, senior dairy husbandman of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C.; Robert C. Cook, managing editor of the Journal of Heredity; Dr. Saul Boyk, professor of chemistry, Purdue University; Paul Bestor, president of Friends of the Land and vice president, retired, of the Prudential Insurance Company; Dr. Johnathan Forman, Columbus, editor of the Ohio State Medical Journal, and a vice president of Friends of the Land; Dr. I. Russell Smith, professor emeritus of economic geography, Columbia University; Dr. William A. Albrecht, professor of soils, University of Missouri; Dr. Vincent Sauchelli, Baltimore, Md., an authority on the chemistry of fertilizers; Dr. C. L. Dow, professor of geology and geography, Ohio University, and a number of others.

EARL C. McGILL, of New York City, president of the Radio Directors Guild, conducted two clinics sponsored by the School of Dramatic Art and Speech as one of the features of the 1948 Summer School. Mr. McGill produces and directs the Mutual network's Episcopalian Hour and is director of the popular "Mr. District Attorney," an NBC production.

THE 1948 Summer School enrollment reached a total of 1,958, only 84 below the record of 2,042 established last summer. The women are outnumbered by the men more than three to one, there being only 438 of the former. Approximately 1,300 of the total number of students are war veterans.

A PPROXIMATELY 100 high school students and advisers to the staffs of high school publications attended the annual High School Conference and Workshop sponsored by the School of Journalism early in the 1948 Summer School. Shown in the picture on this page are L. J. Hortin (right rear), associate professor of journalism, and Edward C. Birkner (left rear), a newly appointed instructor in journalism, in a seminar session in which the students are examining high school newspapers and making a comparison of their various features. An innovation this year was the publication of the "McGuffey Reader," a newspaper written by the students and sold at 5c per copy.

dents the University [82 in the University proper and 91 in the preparatory department has more than attained to the standard of its palmiest days, and the promise of a continued and large increase is better than it has been. Indeed the elements of a true and healthful progress are all here-a beautiful and healthy situation, commodious buildings now in good repair, well selected Libraries, sufficient Apparatus for illustration in Chemistry and Experimental Philosophy, a good endowment, an intelligent and liberal minded Board of Trustees, and a full corps of experienced instructors [five, including the president]. To these, we may add a high moral sentiment among the students, and perfect unanimity in the Faculty respecting the methods of instruction and government. The village of Athens is a perfectly desirable site for a public institution of learning. It is located on the banks of the Hockhocking, about twentyfive miles from the Ohio river, and in its position is elevated and healthful, commanding a scenery eminently picturesque and beautiful. The standard of education is high in the Ohio University, but our young men seem to be convinced of the fact that if a thorough course of study is required, they are richly repaid in the mental strength and discipline with which they go forth to the duties of life."

The circulating exhibit of 33 paintings, all by students 25 years of age or younger, is designed to encourage young artists by circulating their works and promoting the sale of them. On display in the Seligmann galleries during the past month of May, the exhibit is now on tour over the country and will arrive at Ohio University in May, 1949. The painting selected for the exhibit is a non-objective pastel in form. Artist Thayer is shown on the front cover of this issue of

FRANK DILLEY, son of Dr. F. B. Dilley, director of admissions and university examiner at Ohio University, was one of two Athens High School senior boys selected to attend the 12th annual Buckeye Boys State sponsored by the American Legion and held at Ohio Wesleyan University. During the ten-day session the boys had a close-up of just how city, county, and state governments are conducted and participated in "trueto-life" activities . . . Flora Arm-bruster, daughter of Dean A. H. Armbruster of the College of Commerce and an honor student at Athens High School, was chosen to attend the Buckeye Girls State at Capital University. Miss Armbruster's alternate was Miriam Clippinger, daughter of Dr. D. R. Clippinger, professor of chemistry.

A REPORT of Kappa Delta Pi's 25th Anniversary celebration, held on July 23, will appear in the October Alumnus.

Nominating Committee Presents Slate

Again, this time as a result of the streamlined commencement requested by members of the June graduating class, there was no place on the 1948 program for the Alumni Luncheon and Business Meeting, annual and traditional event at which officers of the Ohio University Alumni Association have been nominated and elected in the past.

A similar situation prevailed a year ago, and if abbreviated programs are to be the rule in the future a change in the Association's constitution to permit election at a different time of year will be necessary. The Homecoming scason in the fall may hold some possibilities.

For another year, however, and as an unavoidable measure, members of the Alumni Association are asked to record their choices for the four principal officers and the seven man executive committee by mail, using the attached ballot.

As will be noted, the ballot card requires no postage. Simply detach, check names of nominees or write in substitutes, and mail. Since The Alumnus is mailed only to members of the Alumni Association each recipient of the magazine is eligible to participate in the election.

Gray (Helen McLaughlin, '32), Athens, has submitted the accompanying slate of officers for 1948-1949. Members of the Association, however, have the privilege of writing in the names of others whom they may prefer to those offered by the committee.

Failure to exercise the right of suffrage will be taken as an indication of satisfaction with the officer slate as presented.

Mr. Palmer, an officer of the Standard Savings & Loan Company in Columbus, was vice president of the Alumni Association last year, is a former member of the executive committee, and has a long record of service in Franklin County alumni affairs. He has been nominated to succeed Dr. Don Tullis, '98, Athens.

The Columbus banker was associated with real estate and finance companies in California from 1924 to 1935, and prior to that period had taught in high schools in Illinois and Nevada. He is married and resides in Columbus' suburban Berwick.

Judge Lewis H. Miller, Ripley, W. Va., who has presided over the Fifth Judicial Court of West Virginia for the last 20 years, is also a former member of the Alumni Association's executive committee. He is a candidate for a seat on the Supreme Court bench of his state, and one political writer has predicted that "if elected this fall, he will become the court's Oliver Wendell Holmes."

Judge Miller has been mentioned for even higher office in his state, and it may be no breach of confidence to report that he could have had an important Federal appointment had his personal affairs permitted him to accept it. The West Virginia jurist is a brother of the late Benjamin W. Miller, '14, of Parkersburg, W. Va.

The present secretary and treasurer, Clark E. Williams, '21, and William H. Fenzel, '18, respectively, were again nominated for offices which they have held continuously since 1922. Both are residents of Athens. Mr. Fenzel is associate professor of accounting and economic geography at Ohio University and is the senior member of the College of Commerce faculty in point of service.

The nominees for the executive committee are all persons who are currently identified with alumni activities or have previously held office in the national organization or its subordinate local groups.

Joshua R. Morton, '05, Athens, who retired from the Ohio University faculty in June, is now emeritus professor of chemistry. He was treasurer of the Alumni Association, 1919-22.

Merrill F. Cooley, '16, an instructor in Harding High School, Warren, is well known in public school circles as an officer in state and national teachers' organizations. His wife is the former Nelle Copeland, '15.

A News Round-Up From the Chapters

Incomplete was the summary of organized alumni activities in the last Alumnus. The "to-be-continued" report follows:

Detroit

Detroiters convened for their annual spring dinner, May 8, at the Engineers' Club in the beautiful Rackham Memorial Building, with John R. Horn, '22, in the president's chair. Dr. Einar A. Hansen, speaker of the occasion, was accompanied by the Alumni Secretary, who directed the singing of university songs and exhibited two reels of movies, and by George A. Banks, associate director of the Ohio University Fund, who spoke briefly on fund projects.

In the election of officers for 1948-49, Dr. Leroy Skidmore, '24x, was chosen to head the group, and Ralph Bidwell, Jr., '41, named to succeed himself as secretary-treasurer.

The "influence" necessary for securing the splendid facilities of the Engineer's Colub was provided by Harold Tyree, '16, a past president of the chapter.

Toledo

On May 14, approximately 50 Toledoans enjoyed a buffet supper served by a caterer at the Wilson Park Shelter House. The get-together followed a preliminary meeting of a smaller group at which plans for the coming year were discussed and committees appointed.

Officers elected at the May meeting included: J. W. LaFrance, '35, president, and Jeanne Fisher, '47, secretary.

Another out-of-doors affair, a basket picnic, was held by the Toledo chapter, July 18, in the No. 2 Shelter House at Ft. Meigs State Park, a beautiful spot between Maumee and Perrysburg. This time there were representatives from the campus—Assistant Coach James E. Snyder, '41, whose presence was of interest to some of the chapter's special guests, and the Alumni Secretary. Publicity Chairman Robert B. Evans, '34, was the "master of ceremonies" in the unavoidable absence of President La-France. A dinner meeting will be held in November at which President Baker is expected to be the honor guest and speaker.

Los Angeles

A private dining room of the Mona Lisa Restaurant on Wilshire Boulevard was the seene of the Los Angeles dinner on May 29. The program headliner was Geoffrey Morgan, Santa Monica, former Ohio University faculty man and nationally-known lecturer, whose address, a combination of reminiscence, humor, and philosophy, was greatly enjoyed. Delightful, too, were the vocal solos of Betty Wisda, daughter of the group's presiding officer, James W. Wisda, '09. Miss Wisda was accompanied by a friend, a Mrs. Deatrich of Glendale.

After an election of officers, in which Mr. Wisda and Mrs. Guy E. Saylor (Lenora Van Dyke, '21, 2-yr.) were re-elected president and secretary, the Californians closed the formal part of their program with the singing of "Alma Mater, Ohio," but remained for a lengthy session of "just plain visiting."

Chicago

Alumni in the Windy City area met at the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Club in Chicago's huge landmark, the Merchandise Mart, June 17, for the first reunion since before the War. The party was a great success. Don M. Dowd, '30, headed the reception committee and greeted all guests upon arrival. All of the facilities of the club, both social and recreational, were made available to the Ohioans through the good offices of A. E. Miller, '16x, a director of the club.

Serving as temporary chairman, Mr. Miller took charge of the afterdinner program during which Head Football Coach Harold Wise discussed the gridiron prospects for 1948 and showed colored movies of one of last year's games. Coach Wise was followed by the Alumni Secretary, who gave a resume of campus affairs. The two Athenians were accompanied to Chicago by their wives (see picture); Mrs. Wise being the former Julia Porter, 25x, and Mrs. Williams, the former Marie Jewett, '22.

Mr. Miller was elected president and Dorothy Freedman, '43, secretary for the ensuing year.

Dayton

The editor regrets that he does not have reports on the late spring and early summer activities of the two Dayton groups. The Gem City alumni maintain two organizations: a general chapter for both men and women and an Ohio University women's club. The latter meets monthly during the school year. Dean E. Baesel is head of the larger group, while Mrs. Kenneth Crawford (Ruth Mayer, '33), is president of the alumnae club.

On last February 28 the mixed group enjoyed an evening of square dancing which was planned by a committee under the chairmanship of Irma Zuroweste. '46.

Bridgeport

Three Ohio U. men living in Bridgeport, Conn.—Albert F. Shultz, '47, Leo C. Wilderman, '41, and Daniel Donofrio, '38,—have reported that many of the close to 60 Green and White alumni in their immediate vicinity have expressed a desire for an organization and they are at present investigating the possibilities of establishing a new local association.

Jesting Service Aids Veterans

By EDWARD C. BIRKNER, '47, M.S. '4B

A veteran seeking counseling is

The age-old question of what an individual is best suited for receives sharp attention from the Ohio University Testing and Counseling Service. This three-year-old organization, designed to help youth intelligently to plan its training and educational advancement, has in the past year provided vocational advisement to more than 160 persons per month. By May, 1948, 3,172 veterans had taken advantage of the service.

Working in close cooperation with the Veterans Administration Advisement and Guidance Center in Athens, the service, headed by Dr. Gaige B. Paulsen, professor of psychology, counsels university students as well as veterans from eight surrounding counties. Counseling units are also located in two of the branch-school towns: Portsmouth and Zanesville. So far as is known. Ohio University is the only university in the United States with such a tie-up in counseling services. The chief concern of the three units, which are of particular aid to disabled veterans, is to set up vocational, educational, and training objectives which can be met by persons who are qualified, trainable, and employable.

Thirty per cent of the veterans seeking advisement fall under Public Law 346. The remaining 70 per cent receive their educational and training benefits under Public Law 16. This latter group must take advantage of the services offered through the VA before the government will pay educational and training bills.

garding an objective in which the advisee expresses an interest.

Education, previous work history, hobbies, and training in service are all part of the information compiled. If the client comes with an occupational choice, he may be given the Kuder Preference Record which registers his preference in greater detail. Once he has established an interest in a particular occupation, he may take such tests as the Minnesota Vocational Test for Clerical Workers, the Finger Dexterity or Tweezer Dexterity test, the Minnesota Mechanical Assembly Test, or an Otis Self-Administering Test of Mental

Ability

If the veteran is undecided about a vocation, he may be given Strong's Vocational Interest Blank which makes it possible for him to indicate his like or dislike for particular occupations. A client who wants to enter college is given the Ohio State Psychological Examination which indicates college ability.

On some tests the veteran may do fairly well; on others he may not equal the records of employed persons in a particular category, but his over-all "profile" of aptitude, achievement, ability, and interest provides the counselor with a fund of information which he can interpert for the client.

Presented with a number of possibilities, an undecided veteran is better able to make up his own mind about his own objective. If the goal he sets for himself is within his reach, the counselor will inform him of the type of training necessary to reach the objective. Counselors also have at hand the names and locations of places where the advisee may be trained. If a veteran decides to travel a road on which the likelihood of reaching an objective is extremely limited, a counselor will estimate his chances for success. If the veteran's decision is unreasonable, the coun-

Of the nonagenarian, who makes her home with a son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Johnston Calhoun (Marie Hunter, '07, 2-yr.), the newswriter said: "Ninety-four years rest lightly on the head and heart of Mrs. Hunter, who hears distinctly, loves life, and according to friends and relatives 'thinks like a young person'."

Dr. Calhoun is minister of the First United Presbyterian Church of Long Beach.

Mrs. Hunter is descended from the Bellows family of England, who founded Bellows, Vt., and is a cousin of George Bellows, the great American painter.

In appreciation for help given by the kindly dining hall head during her undergraduate days at Ohio University, the late Dr. Winifred V. Richmond, '10, psychiatrist at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Washington, D.C., dedicated one of her books, "Adolescent Girls," to Mrs. Hunter.

"I'll be back to take a picture of you on your hundreth birthday" the news photographer quipped as he left the Calhoun home.

"I'll be here," smiled Mrs. Hunter.

Engh Represents U. S. State Department at Rome Meeting

Dr. Otto A. Engh, '26, and Mrs. Engh, of Washington, D.C., are expecting to return home in July after two months abroad during which they will have visited Italy, France, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, and the British Isles.

Dr. Engh went to Europe primarily to attend the meetings of the International College of Surgeons which were held in Rome, May 16 to 23. A fellow of the college and a member of the House of Delegates, he was one of four representatives of the U. S. State Department.

The American surgeon is director of the Anderson Orthopedic Clinic and Hospital in Arlington, Va., and a teacher in Geoge Washington Medical School in Washington. He is also an orthopedic consultant to the U. S. Public Health Service and is in charge of the Crippled Children's Program of Northern Virginia.

In Rome, Dr. Engh addressed an I. C. S. session on "Surgery of the Lower Spine." Later he delivered an address before the Finnish College of Surgeons in Helsinki.

Dr. Engh is a brother of Norman A. Engh, '32, Athens, who is associated with the advertising department of The Athens Messenger.

Regardless of what next step is decided upon, the decision must rest with the client. The burden of achieving an objective is always with the client. The counselor is only in a position to supply information, to interpret, to guide, and to outline the necessary steps once a decision is reached.

Before a veteran is committed to an objective, however, he confers with the VA vocational adviser who helps develop final plans in the program. A vocational objective must be approved by a medical consultant and the chief of VA advisement. From

Schools Get Housing Under Bill By Ohio Congressman

Ownership and control of all temporary veterans' housing units now being used by Ohio University students will be sought by university officials under the terms of a recentlyenacted federal law.

The measure, Public Law 796, was introduced by Congressman J. Harry

Cangressman J. Harry McGregor

McGregor, West Lafayette, of the Seventeenth Ohio District, and signed by President Truman on June 28. It provides for the transfer of ownership, without cost, to educational institutions, of housing facilities which were provided by the Government to help meet the emergency created by the response of veterans to the provisions of the G. I. Bill.

At Ohio University the facilities consist of 15 apartment buildings for married veterans near the University Airport, 23 buildings on the East Green which accommodate 600 unmarried men, and 50 trailer units for married veterans erected in several locations.

The wife of Congressman McGregor, the former Twila Cox, was a student at Ohio University in 1917-18.

Having been given the benefit of expert information and counseling, the veteran is then on his way to a sound professional, technical, or semi-skilled occupation in a college, trade-school, or on the job.

Memorial Fund Established By Mother of Ohio Graduate

A bequest of $3,300 has been received by Ohio University from the estate of the late Mrs. Mary E. Darst, Radnor, to be used in establishing a memorial to her daughter, Rose Marie Darst, '26, former assistant professor of art at Kansas State College, who died June 1, 1945.

Rase Marie Darst

The will of the mother provides that a sum not to exceed $300 is to be used for purchasing "a suitable work of art to be hung in the halls of the University" and that the remainder of the bequest is to be used to establish the ROSE MARIE DARST MEMORIAL FUND, with the income from the fund to be used "for the purpose of furnishing scholarships to worthy students of high standing in the Art Department."

The B.S. in Education degree was awarded the Kansas teacher by Ohio University in 1926 and the A.M. degree by Columbia in 1927.

At the time of Miss Darst's death she was on leave of absence from Kansas State College to care for her mother who was in ill health at the parental home. She had joined the faculty of the Kansas school in 1933 after teaching at Purdue University.

For many years Miss Darst was national secretary of Delta Phi Delta, honorary professional art organization. Her reviews of books on art appeared frequently in the magazine, Palette.

Miss Darst had traveled widely in the United States and Mexico and had taught art in summer schools at the University of Missouri.

Majel Lawrence, '14, A.M. '41, was for 24 years a high school librarian-instructor in Clarksburg, W. Va., but is now a resident of Athens.

K. Mark Cowen, '22, superintendent of the recreation division of the Department of Parks and Recreation in Indianapolis, Ind., is a national officer and well-known figure in playground and recreation associations. Mrs. Cowen was a classmate, Emma Helsel.

Mrs. Elma Dulaney Keller, '20, is the wife of Laurence D. Keller, '22, the latter a member of a firm of Columbus accountants, and mother of Elaine Keller, an Ohio University junior.

Dewey M. Goddard, '25, is head of an insurance business in Athens and a member of a family having a number of names in the alumni register. Mrs. Goddard was Ellen Davis, '32x.

Physician and Surgeon Dies In Baltimore at Eighty-Two

A report recently received brings news of the death of Dr. Charles French Blake, '91, A.M. '93, a physician and surgeon in Baltimore, Md., since 1894, on Mar. 30, 1948. He was 82 years of age.

Dr. Blake was born on a farm near Athens, and after graduation from Ohio University studied medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Baltimore. He went to Europe in 1908 for additional training in his profession. Ohio University conferred an honorary Master of Arts degree upon him in 1912.

He married Miss Adeline Bryon of Washington, D.C., by whom he is survived, in 1903.

After completing a surgical residency at Baltimore's Mercy Hospital Dr. Blake embarked upon what was to be a long and distinguished career in the Maryland city.

At the College of Physicians and Surgeons he was professor of operative surgery, 1900-1905. More recently, and until his death, he was professor of proctology at the University of Maryland Medical School and professor of surgery at Mercy Hospital.

The Baltimorean was a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and a member of national, state, and local medical associations. He was president of the Medical Society of Baltimore in 1925.

Mr. Parks Retires As Business Manager; Ballard To Succeed

After nearly 40 years of service to Ohio University, George C. Parks, '08, will retire, September 1, as business manager of the university and secretary of the board of trustees.

He will be succeeded as business manager by Paul H. Ballard, Jackson, a veteran member of the Ohio Legislature and a longtime friend of the university.

Mr. Parks, a native of Hopedale, joined the faculty of Ohio University in 1904 as an instructor in the commerce department, and later became graduate manager of athletics. He received the Bachelor of Philosophy degree in 1908.

He left the university in 1918 and served four years as an auditor for the Imperial Ice Cream Company.

When he returned in 1922, he was named treasurer and business manager of the university. He relinquished the treasurership last September, but continued as business manager and board secretary, positions which he has filled for the past 26 years.

When Mr. Parks first joined the faculty, the university had about 550 students and only five campus buildings—Cutler Hall and its two wings,

George C. Parks

Ewing Hall, and Fine Arts Building. Now there are more than 5,500 students with 31 main buildings and 29 auxiliary buildings, and during his 40 years of service he has played a big part in this development of the university.

The university official also witnessed a 10-fold growth in the institution's payroll, and an increase from 60 faculty members and other employees in 1904 to a staff of more than 600 at present.

Mr. Ballard, who is not a candidate for re-election, has served seven consecutive two-year terms as the representative of Jackson County in the lower house of the Legislature, and has been chairman of the finance committee for the last 10 years. His record of five terms as chairman of the important committee is unequalled in Ohio's history. During his 14 years in the House he twice turned down the speakership and also declined a gubernatorial appointment to the post of state finance director.

As chairman of the House finance committee, Mr. Ballard was a member of the state sundry claims board, state controlling board, and the state emergency board. The controlling board has charge of releasing funds to state departments as needed, while the emergency board acts on requests for funds when the legislature is not in session.

In his six terms as chairman he presented and sponsored general appropriations bills totaling more than two billion dollars. He also sponsored anti-graft legislation adopted by the legislature, the first measure passed to appropriate funds for the rehabilitation of school buildings in financially-weak school districts on a formula basis, the tuberculosis bill pro-viding four million dollars for hospitilization purposes, and a bill establishing the Legislative Research Commission. Another measure which he successfully steered to passage was a bill to establish the multi-million dollar health center now under construction at Ohio State University.

The new Ohio University official is probably best known for his championship of three causes which proved of great benefit to Ohio's taxpayers and school teachers. He first suggested and then sponsored a bill which set aside 25 million dollars of the state surplus as a "first payment on the state bonus to veterans of World War II." He authored a similar measure in the special session which made this grant an annual appropriation, thus eliminating the payment of a property tax to finance the bonus for years to come, and probably never.

He also is greatly responsible for the accruement of the state surplus through his successful fight for two terms for an agreement by the legislature to separate current operating funds from capital improvement items. It was only in this way, he contended, that the actual current cost of government could be determined, and at the same time plans laid for permanent improvement in the state's physical plant.

And it was his amendment to the school bill, in the last session, that required at least 75 percent of all increases in state aid to local school districts be used to increase teachers' salaries, and not be diverted to some other use.

In his fight for seperation of budget items, Mr. Ballard insisted on an amendment, finally adopted, which placed all revenues in excess of estimates in a special post-war reserve fund, a move which aided in the building of the state's 90-plus million dollar surplus.

The Bobcat Sports Review

A PPROXIMATELY 50 candi-dates for the 1948 edition of the Bobcat football team will assemble Monday, Aug. 30, for preliminary instructions from Coach Harold E. Wise before plunging into a strenuous 20-day practice in preparation for the season's opener against Bowling Green State University in Ohio Stadium on Sept. 25.

The 50 candidates include several veterans from last year's eleven, including such players as Chris Stefan, King Brady, Ken Weiss, Bobbie Mills and Ed Sudnick, and a number of new recruits who showed good promise in the annual intra-squad tussle last spring.

Coach Wise, aware of a tough schedule facing his '48 eleven, hopes weather conditions will be in his favor so he can push his charges to near peak form for the opening tussle. Assisting in the training activities will be "Dutch" Trautwein, Kermit Blosser, Jim Snyder, Frank Richey and Thor Olson.

On Oct. 2, the Bobcats travel to Roanoke, Va., to clash with Washington and Lec for the first time in the history of the two schools in a night contest, and the following week open their Mid-American Conference battle with Cincinnati at Cincinnati, in another night

Returning to the home lair, the Bobcats take on Western Reserve on Oct. 16, Miami in the annual Homecoming game on Oct. 23, both conference tilts, and entertain Duquesne here Oct. 30. Road trips are scheduled Nov. 6 at West Virginia and Nov. 13 at Butler, with the Dad's Day contest Nov. 20 with Western Michigan, another conference foe, winding up the season.

This football ticket arrangement was inaugurated in 1946 through the cooperation of the Athletic Department, and has been taken advantage of by more than two thousand alumni during the past two seasons.

As pointed out by the Alumni Secretary, the automatically paid-up Alumni Association membership periods of recent graduates expire three years after the dates of graduation. All persons, therefore, who graduated in August, 1945, or thereafter are still in good standing. Graduates whose degrees hear dates earlier than August, 1945, should make sure that they are eligible for the special offer.

She was a vice president in 1933 and was also general chairman of the American celebration of the 2000th birthday of Vergil and was the only woman on the staff of lecturers on the Vergilian Pilegrimage and Aeneid Cruise. In recognition of these activities she was awarded the Bi-Millennium Vergilianum Plaque of the American Classical League.

In the Ohio River city they will occupy a newly purchased residence with their son-in-law and daughter, DALE M. DUTTON, '26x, and Mrs. Dutton (MARGARET HOWE CARPENTER, '26x). Their winters will be spent in Florida. Prof. Carpenter is the donor of Ohio University's 20-inch reflector type telescope which is located in the small observatory on north hill. Mr. Dutton is the owner of the Dutton Drug Co.

Citizens of Athens and students of the university were interested greatly in a dress displayed at commencement time in a Court Street window. It was a white organdie gown worn at her graduation by Mrs. Ada Wickham O'Bleness, who came all the way from North Dakota to attend Ohio University, but who has long been a resident of Athens. A real work of art and a thing of beauty, the gown was floor length, with full sleeves, a high neckline, and a full skirt ending in two dainty ruffles. Sixty-five yards of lace and insertion were a part of the creation. "The dressmaker apologized for charging $5 for making it," Mrs. O'Bleness told friends. The fifty-year graduate is the widow of Harry C. O'Bleness. '92x, who died in 1938 and a sister of Mrs. B. A. Place (Marbel Wickham, '01), who passed away in 1912.

The guest register in the Alumni Office is being signed almost daily by graduates and former students returning for a visit to the campus. Among the recent visitors were Clifford W. D. CHANCE and Mrs. Chance of Claremont, Calif. Mr. Chance is principal of the John C. Fremont Junior High School in nearby Pomona. They had come East for the marriage of their daughter, Barbara Mae, who graduated in June from Milwaukee — Downer College, her mother's alma mater. In Claremont the Chances are neighbors of Mrs. Clara D. Thompson, former member of the Ohio University School of Music faculty and wife of the late Alexander S. Thompson who was director of the School of Music from 1914 to 1932.

AUSTIN V. WOOD, a Wheeling, W.Va. attorney and newspaper publisher, was a member of the platform committee at the recent Republican national convention in Philadelphia and is credited by newswriters and columnists with having wielded a beneficial influence on the phraseology employed in the platform document. It is reported that Mr. Wood objected to the wording of a plank written in Washington by Senators Vandenberg and Taft and submitted at the convention by the platform chairman, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts. According to one newsman: "It was beautiful prose, but what did it mean? . . . Wood, a hard-hitting newspaper publisher, spoke amiably. 'You know, Senator, a Harvard graduate like yourself would understand that perfectly. But elections aren't won by Harvard graduates. We want a platform a taxi driver can understand and Looking a little upset by the remember. remark, Senator Lodge said: 'All right, you write it then.' So, Wood took all those fine words and bolled them down into concise phrases. The result was a plank that puts the Republican party squarely on record for an international policy." Mr. Wood is general manager policy. of the Ogden newspaper interests, a chain of 14 leading dailies in several West Virginia cities.

DR. JAMES L. HUPP (see picture), dean of students and pro-fessor of education at West Vir-ginia Wesleyan College, Bethany, is the new president of the Society of the Sons of the Revo-lution in the State of West Virginia. The state branch was or-ganized in Wheeling in 1894 on the anniversary of the Battle of Lexington and holds its annual meetings on Washington's birthday. A member of the executive committee of the Asso-ciation of Higher Education of West Virginia and chairman of the association's Committee on Teacher Recruitment, Dr. Hupp addressed the association on April 3 on the teacher needs of his state.

A. E. "DINK" MILLER. ex (see picture in group on this page), newly-elected president of the Ohio University alumni chapter in Chicago, is a mem-ber of the board of directors of the Merchants and Manufacturers Club, an organization of some 800 men having offices and headquarters in the huge Merchandise Mart in the Windy City. The mart is said to be the largest commercial building in the world. Through Director Miller's contacts, the recent dinner meeting of the alumni group was held in one of the private dining rooms of the Merchants and Manufacturers Club. Mr. Miller is associated with Universal Potters, Inc. He has a son, John, who will be a sophomore at Ohio University this fall.

After several years as an educational supervisor in the U. S. Indian Service, with headquarters in Salt Lake City, Utah, MRS. BERTHA LIVELY ELLINGER is now associated with the government schools in Alaska, with headquarters in Juneau.

A highly adventurous and dangerous exploit was undertaken this summer by a Toledo couple, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hiser (LUCILE BIDDLE, 2-yr.). Piloted by a widely known riverman, Norman Nevills, of Mexican Hat, Utah, the Hisers, in a 21-day trip, negotiated the rapids of the Colorado River through its famous gorge. Mrs. Hiser is one of only a few women who have ever made the hazardous gorge trip. When asked, prior to embarking, if she were worried, she replied: "We've seen how Nevills handles his boats. I'm more scared of automobile traffic than I am of the trip." The Toledoans are now visiting the park areas of the West. They covered much of the same territory last October by air. Mr. Hiser is president of the Emerald Electric Company, manufacturers of electric motors, while Mrs. Hiser is secretary-treasurer of the same company.

HOMER R. COTTERMAN (see picture), professor of education at Capital University, Columbus, is a man of many interests and activities. A veteran at Capital, having been a member of the faculty for 20 years, where he is engaged in teacher training, Prof. Cotterman owns and manages (usually by remote control) a 570-acre farm near Glenford, the town in Perry County which produces so many outstanding athletes. He is also a popular speaker and lecturer. His calendar showed a total of 120 addresses during the past year. Mr. Cotterman embarked upon his teaching career in a Perry County school before entering Ohio University. His undergraduate days were broken by a period of World War I service in the AEF. He was superintendent of schools at Carroll for five years, 1922-27.

NEIL D. THOMAS, who is having the summer off from teaching duties as associate professor of civil engineering at Ohio University, is currently engaged in the drafting and cor-recting of tax maps to be used by the Athens County auditor in a re-appraisal of real estate in the county. It is the first time this work has been done since 1926. Prof. Thomas is a professional engineer as well as a teacher, and was a member of the executive committee of the Ohio University Alumni Associ-ation during the past year.

Another and a recent advancement in the sales organization of Diebold, Inc., returns W. REX SNAVELY to Canton, his parental home and the home of the Die-bold company. Until recently, manager of the Mid-west Bank Division of Diebold, Mr. Snavely is now sales manager of the company's entire bank division and as such will direct the activities of the general office bank sales staff and all of the regional bank sales managers in 24 cities of the United States. Diebold is perhaps best known for its manufacture of bank vaults, although it engages in the manufacture of a number of other products. A. WAYNE JACKSON, '28x, is vice president in charge of sales of Diebold, Inc.

A brother of Dewey M. Goddard, Athens insurance man, is owner of the 9,970-acre "Paddle G" Ranch near Ardmore, Okla. On this immense ranch Mr. Goddard keeps more than 3,000 Angora goats to help clean up brush and weeds. His chief interest, however, is in raising feeder cattle. Among his horses are Palominos and many of Quarter Horse breeding. His "Little Joe" is the champion quarter horse stallion of Oklahoma. On the ranch there is a 960-acre wild animal preserve which is entirely enclosed by a closely woven wire fence. There are 15 lakes, most of them stocked with fish.

Harriet Gleason, A.M. '39, a sister of Helen Gleason (see Class of 1926 notes), is director of pupil personnel at Creston High School in Grand Rapids, Mich. This is a new position and Miss Gleason is having fun "selling" it to the faculty. The title of her thesis for the graduate degree was: "A Comprehensive Comparative Scholastic Activity Study of a Generation of Ohio University Nonnational Honor Society Women with National Honor Society Women."

When WILLIAM T. S. O'HARA, JR., a Toledo attorney, and Mrs. O'Hara went to New York this summer they planned to go by way of Philadelphia and to stop off in that city for the big Republican convention. Failing to secure convention tickets they went on to New York City where they followed convention proceedings by television in the comfort of an air-conditioned room.

The PAUL R. O'BRIENS of Athens have precocious children. At the recent 9th grade commencement exercises in Athens Junior High School, young John Robert amazed his listeners with the effective delivery of his oration—and we mean oration. A further evidence of precociousness in the O'Brien family was the arrival of Sherri Lynn, May 10, with two full-fledged teeth. The father, a member of the Class of 1932, is treasurer of Ohio University and a onetime president of the Gallia County alumni chapter. In fact, he presided at a meeting of his alumni group on the night that his son was born.

HARRY G. BERKOWITZ, an Ohio University Phi Betc, is an insurance broker in Brooklyn, N.Y. He is married, has two children, and will soon celebrate the 14th anniversary of a wedding event at which a classmate and fellow-townsman, S. STUART KLEIGER, served as best man.

THOMAS N. HOOVER, JR., has accepted a position as personnel, wage, and salary specialist with the Arabian-American Oil Company and is now at Dhaþran, Arabia, having flown there on a four-day trip from New York City. Mr. Hoover is residing in one of the air-conditioned domiciles of the American colony of 4,000 residents who are employees of the Standard Oil Company. A golf course, swimming pool, and a luxurious club house ming pool, and a luxurious club house are maintained as part of the colony's recreational facilities. Before going to Arabia, Mr. Hoover was engaged in personnel work for the Veterans Administration in Pasadena, Calif. He is the son of T. N. HOOVER, 'OS, professor emeritus of history, and Mrs. Hoover, (ETHEL ARNOLD, '13x), Athens, and a brother of Mrs. VIRCINIA HOOVER FRANK-IN. '36 Springfield. LIN, '36, Springfield.

M. HUNTER MACFARLAN, M.Ed., '40, has been named principal of Technical High School, "the skyscraper school," in Miami, Fla. The informal name of the school derives from the fact that it, and other educational activities, entirely occupy a 15-story building, said to be the largest building in the state of Florida. Mr. Macfarlan has been advanced to his new position from the principalship of Evening High School, which is housed in the same building. In his new technical and vocational program, Principal Macfarlan will direct work in such fields as radio and radar, diesel engines, aircraft mechanics, commercial refrigeration, and air con-ditioning, as well as the usual "trades" taught in such schools. In his machine shop, alone, is to be found more than $200,000 worth of equipment. The Floridian is the husband of the former ALTHEA MILLER, '32x, and the father of two MILLER, '32x, and the father of two children, Howard, 14 and Marilyn, 10.

RALPH E. CLUM has been an instrumental music supervisor in the high school at Philo during the past year. Mrs. Crum was ANN LOUISE CLARK, '47.

D.C., last February to join her father who is now stationed at Fort Amador in the Canal Zone. Miss Walsh is working in one of the offices on the post. Her brother-in-law and sister, DAVID R. WELLER, '44, and Mrs. Weller (PHILIPPA WALSH, '43), with their two sons, Daniel and David, have recently moved from Dayton to Denver, Colo. For other news of the Walsh family, see "Births."

EDWARD C. BIRKNER (see picture on page 18), whose article on the testing program for veterans appears on page 11, has been appointed instructor in journalism at Ohio University. Mr. Birkner received a degree in journalism in February, 1947, and subsequently held a graduate assistantship and a fellowship in his alma mater's Graduate College.

WILLIAM J. BENSON has written: "It seems that the Class of 1947 must be very insurance minded. "HUCK" LEONARD, who was class president, is in the insurance business in Cleveland. KEITH FOX, who was vice president of the class, is in the insurance business in Syracuse, N. Y., and, strangely enough, I am in the insurance business in Brooklyn, N. Y., and I was treasurer of that class." Somewhat to his surprise, Alumnus Reader Benson discovered that he and Classmate Keith are both working for the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company.

JAY A. MORRISON is now under continuing contract in the department of general engineering at Purdue University with the present rank of instructor.

Charlotte A. Eaton has a position with the Eastman Kodak Company in Rochester, N. Y., as a translator from English to Spanish and Portuguese.

PAUL B. MARGESON is instructor in hiology at the University of Buffalo. He has also served as athletic trainer at the New York school during the past year.

JOHN M. NOLAN (see "Marriages"), MELVIN R. SMITH, EDWARD S. KARON and JOHN C. THOMPSON, ROTC advanced students who received both degrees and Officers' Reserve Corps commissions in June, were designated as "distinguished military graduates" and have been recommended by President Truman for appointment in the regular Army. Their names have been submitted to the Senate for approval.

RAY STEINER, who received a degree in clearical engineering, has accepted a position with the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. in the northern Ohio city. His brother, MAURICE E. STEINER, a commerce graduate, with highest honors, will enter the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration this fall.

Pictured with his parents, both members of the June graduating class, is William Andrews Smetts, Jr., who was born December 30, 1947. The father is president of the June section of the Class of 1948. The picture was taken in the Alumni Office by EMERSON S. "Vic." SHEROW, "29. Mr. Smetts has accepted a position with the Ohio Bell Telephone Company in Toledo.

(see picture on page 19), who was sales and business manager of The 1945 Athena and business manager of the 1946 and 1947 yearbooks, has been appointed assistant cashier in the office of the Ohio University treasurer. His immediate superior is CASHIER J. WILLIAM ROBERSON, '39. For further news concerning Mr. Phillips, see "Births."

JEAN L. MICKLE (see picture and announcement on page 23) graduated in June with a most remarkable school attendance record. Never since entering Athens Junior High School had she missed a day of school or a college class, and never from kindergarten through the university had she been tardy in arriving at the classroom. A case of measles, while in the elementary grades, prevented a perfect 16-year attendance record. Miss Mickle's father is mayor of the City of Athens

GRANT FERGUSON, who expects to receive a B.S. in Journalism degree with the August class, will sail Sept. 10, harring the outbreak of a war in Europe, for Sweden where he expects to enroll in the University of Stockholm for graduate work in economics. He will be accumpanied by his wife, the former WillDa "Boots" RAWLES, '47, and will he gone two years.

Beverly McCarter expects to engage in child welfare work in the state of Connecticut. Geraldine DeMarco will engage in psychiatric work at Cambridge State Hospital in Ohio.

AUDRA SCHNURR is the new radio editor and librarian on the editorial staff of The Canton Repository. "Let me go in, coach!" Craig Holland Gatter, another potential gridman, doesn't like the idea of being "benched" any more than the boys on the varsity squad and he plainly shows it (see picture). Only 15 months old, he'll have to want awhile for a place in the starting line-up. Craig's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Gatter (PATRICIA WALSH, '45x), 2209-A

Deaths

OLIVE ROBENS RIDGE

Mrs. Samuel Ridge (OLIVE ROBENS, '16—see picture) died June 30, 1948, at her home in Canton following an illness of more than two years.

Mrs. Ridge was a student assistant in the art department of the College of Education at Ohio University in her undergraduate days, and after receiving a Public School Drawing diploma in 1914 was appointed instructor in the subject. She received her degree in 1916 and remained at her alma mater until 1917, when she went to Chagrin Falls to teach. After one year in Chagrin Falls and a summer of graduate work at Columbia University she returned to the Ohio University sampus for one year, serving as a substitute for Miss Mary J. Brison, art department head during the latter's absence. She was one of the early members of Cresset, now a chapter of Mortar Board, an honor society.

In 1937, Mrs. Ridge, with her husband and their son, Loren T. Ridge, a June '48 graduate, moved from Chagrin Falls to the present home in Canton where, from 1941 to 1944, Mrs. Ridge served as pastor's assistant at the First Methodist Church. Mr. Ridge is associated with the physical laboratory of the Timken Roller Bearing Co.
